

PART 4... MURDER, SHE WROTE

People today are still living off the table scraps of the sixties. They are still being passed around - the music and the ideas.

~Bob Dylan (1992)

Probably the greatest tragedy of the church throughout its long and chequered history has been its constant tendency to conform to the prevailing culture instead of developing a Christian counter-culture.

~ John Stott

Just as the fetus is fulfilled in the adult human, so the Law and the Prophets are fulfilled in Christ's works and words.

~ Haddon W. Robinson

Jesus came not to abolish the law but to fulfill it. Of course, some of the elements in the Old Testament law were abolished by being fulfilled.

~ Michael Green

The history of the Old Testament led to the history of Christ's life. The ceremonies pointed to Him. The animals offered on the altar pointed to Him. The food laws pointed to Him. The Old Testament was the pencil sketch, and He was the portrait.

~ Haddon W. Robinson

The Sermon on the Mount is not law to be obeyed, but theology to be intellectually appropriated and internalized, in order then to be creatively developed and implemented in concrete situations in life.

~ Hans Dieter Betz

Jesus' teaching deals with the inner springs of human conduct, which Law as such cannot regulate.

~ M. Eugene Boring

The Sermon on the Mount is cosmic in its implications. It goes inside us where other more religious teaching just scratches the surface.

~ Carl G. Vaught

The teachings of Jesus are an agency which all men must now admit do have been, for good or evil, the most powerful moral lever that has ever been applied to the affairs of man.

~ W.E.H. Lecky

Jesus reveals to us that his body is the dwelling place of God where we can find life. But we often seek life in the culture of money and forget that we too are the dwelling place of God.

~ Jean Vanier

We are stardust, we are golden, and we've got to get ourselves back to the garden.

~ Joni Mitchell

I am the Way.

~ Jesus